Launchmen Attention

The customs authorities at Juneau are notifying launch owners in this part of the world that they have changed their minds on the matter of equipment for motor boats. It has been generally understood that the law would not be too rigidly enforced in-so-far as fishing boats were concerned, but the latest ruling is to the effect that no exception will be made in any case. Hitherto fishermen have not been in the habit of providing their boats with life preservers. Hereafter they must have one for each person on board, irrespective of whether such person is owner, crew or passenger. Again, that section relating to fire extinguishers has been let go by the board in a good many instances, now, however, the decision has been made that flour or sand, if carried so that it can be gotten at at all times, will fill the bill, but it must be handy and in sight, or it won't be considered. Remember, these rules apply to all power boats, irrespective of size, you must have life preservers and you must have some kind of a fire extinguisher on board.

Jail For Petersburg

Petersburg evidently intends to keep right up with the times. The question of installing a water system for fire protection is now under consideration there, the idea being to install a gasoline engine and pump, and use salt water. The town is now constructing a municipal jail, having decided to maintain a town marshal and police judge. Oscar Nicholson has been appointed to fill the former position and is giving general satisfaction.

Home On The Jefferson

Mrs. F. Matheson and daughters arrived home on the Jefferson, after a trip of about a couple of months below. Howard Winter, Mrs. Matheson's father accompanied them north and has since been renewing the acquaintance of his many Wrangell friends. He will stay the winter. Mr. Matheson went south as far as Ketchikan on the Humboldt to meet the family, returning with them.

Are Planning Improvements

Miss Anna E. Durkee, manager of the Alaska Garnet Mining & Manufacturing Co., accompanied by Miss Crafts, president of the company, and E. E. Griswold, assistant manager, arrived up on the Jefferson on their annual trip of inspection of their property. To The Sentinel Miss Durkee made the statement that they had nothing particularly new for publication. "We came just to see how matters stood at the property, that is all," she said. "We expect to make some new changes and improvements in the coming year, of course, but with the exception of a bunkhouse for which we shipped the lumber over to the property Monday afternoon, we shall make no changes public until after the meeting of the board of directors next month. I will say though, that financially we are in better shape than ever before, and I am of the opinion that the coming season will see considerable development work done on the ledge. We have at last found a lapidary who handles the gems as they should be handled, and the results exceed even our best hopes, both in number of perfect stones resulting, and the quality and brilliancy of the product." The party will remain here for some time attending to minor matters concerning the property.

More Lights Installed

The lighthouse tender Armeria returned to port Saturday night from Point Young and Shelter Island, where acetylene lights were placed as aids to navigation. The officers of the steamers Bertha and Georgia reports the lights burning last night, and say they give excellent aid to mariners. The tender sailed this morning to place two more lights before proceeding to Ketchikan, where additional lights will be placed. — Juneau Dispatch.

A Birthday Party

Belle Hood was the hostess of a very pleasant party given in honor of her tenth birthday, Friday afternoon, November 25. Sixteen of her little friends were present, every one of whom had a most enjoyable time. Those present were Gussie Leonard, Patience Collins, Talitea Ensley, Edna Lindeman, Edna Sinclair, Irene Coulter, Alice Kincaid, Margaret Grant, Helen Hofstad, Amanda Horgheim, Bella Horgheim, Esther Tervo, Belle Walton, Elfreda Emery, Neil Grant, Alfred Royalty.

In Commission Shortly

The crew which has been at work during the past summer and fall erecting the beacons in the narrows have just about completed their work. Sunday of this week, the last chapter of the work was commenced when the installation of the lamps themselves was begun. Supt. Dohrer, who has had charge of the work, stated to The Sentinel man that the lights could not be lighted until after a chart of their locations has been made and published, and the necessary time given for the word to get to the steamboat captains. It is expected that this will be completed within the next few days, so that there is every possibility that the entire fifteen lights will be doing business before the end of the present month.

The Duckland made the trip to the garnet property, Monday, with a load of lumber and supplies.

Messrs. Jones and Berch have installed a twelve horse power Automatic engine in the Northern Light.

Of Course He'll Come Back

The Sentinel is in receipt of a letter from F. E. Smith at Bellingham, Wash., conveying the news that he and his better half had arrived at their destination, and making the statement that they had had a pleasant time since leaving and were going to get all out of their trip possible. When "Dad" Smith left, this paper made the statement that it would not be long before he would be back, but we had no idea that he would acknowledge it as soon as he did. In the letter mentioned he states that he has closed a deal with the owners of the local shingle mill whereby he will be in possession thereof for some time to come, and will be here as soon as the weather permits the running of the mill. Of course he is coming back, they all do, simply can't stay away.

Jimmie Bradley has launched his new boat and is installing the engine, a Scripps.

The Mabel, completely remodelled, is in commission again.

Spurred to renewed action by recent disasters along the Alaskan coast, shipping and transportation companies of Seattle are uniting in an appeal for more aids to navigation. The appeal is in the form of a letter to Congressman W. E. Humphrey and it urges upon the congressman the absolute necessity of providing safeguards on the wide dark stretch of several thousand miles of stormy coast line.—Douglas News.

One of the most significant of the year's developments in Alaska has been the increasing number of small stamp mills which have been put in operation, testing out the numerous veins of free-milling quartz which have been uncovered in the course of the last year or two. For example, recent arrivals at Fairbanks from Chandler report that the little three-stamp mill taken into the district over the snow last winter has been running steadily. Another new mill has been set up and is at work on ore which had accumulated on the dump. Everybody in the district is enthusiastic over the prospect in hard rock way, assuring the permanence of the camp for all time to come. It is believed that by another year several more mills will be running.—Ex.

Alaska has become a regular source of spruce seed and cones there are bringing 75 cents a bushel. It came about in this way. The Department of Agriculture of the United States, which uses large quantities of the seed in its reforestation work, found that this was an off year in the spruce crop of the west. The forestry office therefore sent to Alaska to secure a supply of cones of the Sitka spruce. Several men have been engaged in the task of gathering them around Cordova Bay and have been making good wages. A government boat makes the collections along the shores and takes them to Cordova where they are dried like hops, being subjected to a heat of 210 degrees for two or three days. They are then threshed out in a box and the seeds collected. The government has never been able to secure as much of the seed as it required, but the shortage this year was unusual until the Alaska product was thought of. Hereafter it is probable that Alaska will supply sufficient for all the large restocking enterprises under way on the Pacific Coast.—Alaska-Yukon Magazine.

SALE OF TIMBER. Ketchikan, Alaska, November 28, 1910. Sealed bids marked outside "Bid Timber Sale Application, November, 28, 1910, Tongass," and addressed to the Forest Supervisor, Ketchikan, Alaska, will be received up to and including the 31st day of December, 1910 for all or any part of the live timber marked or otherwise designated for cutting by the Forest officer, and available for hand or steam logging on an approximate area of 600 acres situated on the shores of Douglas Bay, Kupreanof Island and within the Tongass National Forest, Alaska, estimated to be 1,500,000 feet B. M. of green spruce saw timber more or less. No bid of less than one ($1.00) dollar per thousand feet B. M. will be considered, and a deposit of $100.00 must be sent to W. A. Langille, Special Fiscal Agent, Forest Service, Ketchikan, Alaska, for each bid submitted to the Supervisor. Timber upon valid claims is exempted from sale. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved. For further information and regulations governing sales, address the Forest Supervisor Ketchikan, Alaska.

Webster's NEW INTERNATIONAL Dictionary, (G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.) surpasses the old International as much as that book exceeded its predecessor. On the old foundation a new superstructure has been built. The reconstruction has been carried on through many years by a large force of trained workers, under the supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education, and reinforced by many eminent specialists. The definitions have been rearranged and amplified. The number of terms defined has been more than doubled. The etymology, synonyms, pronunciation, have received unsparing scholarly labor. The language of English literature for over seven centuries, the terminology of the arts and sciences, and the every-day speech of street, shop, and household, are presented with fullness and clearness. In size of vocabulary, in richness of general information, and in convenience of consultation, the book sets a new mark in lexicography.

Wood sells for $9 a cord at Whitehorse.

The editor of the Ketchikan Miner was thankful because turkey was cheaper than bacon.

In order to obtain possession of the ground on which to build government buildings at Juneau, condemnation proceedings have been started.

W. D. McCarthy, of Rampart, has been taken from the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, to the asylum for criminal insane at Washington.

Again the dog poisoner has been busy at Whitehorse. This is his fifth visit in two years and the Star says he can make money by revealing his identity.

During the winter months, when the interior of Alaska is popularly supposed to be isolated, mail is delivered in Fairbanks on an average of twice a week.

Sixty thousand dollars in gold was recently brought to Nome from Squirrel river and now a large part of the population has stam-peded for the new diggings.

Steam schooner A. G. Lindsay has been chartered by the E. R. Gray Company and will be operated on a regular schedule between Seattle and Seward, calling at way ports.

It is said that application will be made at the approaching session of the Dominion parliament by MacKenzie & Mann for their proposed and recently announced trans-provincial line from Stewart, B. C. to Edmonton.

All of the contiguous territory has now been carved into sovereign states, and Alaska is the heir apparent among the territorial possessions. Fourteen New York states or 470 Rhode Islands could be carved out of Alaska. Her coast line, if straightened out, would extend from Portland, Maine to a point in the Pacific ocean 1700 miles west of Portland, Oregon.

The Tanana Hot Springs district may yet become famous as a tin mining country. Tons upon tons of placer tin are run over into the tailings on the placer grounds every year and it is the firm belief of many that a rich vein of tin will be struck in the not distant future.
